

DIRECTOR BIOGRAPHY

Chris Salvary

Chris graduated from the LSSM in 1992 and worked in various club and clinical environments as well as developing my own private practice. She has also taught sports massage at private schools and on university degree programmes. She completed a Masters Degree in Complementary Therapy: Bodywork at the University of Westminster in 2003, for which her dissertation looked at how athletes with disabilities use sports massage for training and competition. It was eventually published by the ICSSPE in 2007.

She currently combines private practice with teaching at the University of Bedfordshire and also supported the GB Cerebral Palsy Paralympic Football Team through to 2012. She has extensive experience working with GB Paralympic teams and has been involved in every Paralympic Games since Atlanta 1996.

She has been involved with the SMA since its inception assessing candidates for membership and was elected to the SMA Board in 2010.
